

No. Unrestricted monitoring of communications is unAmerican. Giving up privacy for security is not a logical argument, rights of "snooping" should not be given to any organization, public or private.